Now that I'm finally catching up from the very busy recent holiday weekend, I've been able to post some of my photos from the annual parade in Dundalk, MD. This is where I grew up, went to school, and worked for many years.

Here's a few of my photos from this year's parade.

I try to return often for the July 4th weekend, which is also my birthday (oh, the agony when I found out the fireworks were not for me :- ( !!! ). Sometimes I make the parade, which starts way too early for me (anything before 10am is way too early).

And, here's a few more photos from the local rag, the Dundalk Eagle. EDITOR'S NOTE: The Dundalk Eagle website is one of the worst websites I have ever seen. The usability and readability is just awful. My apologies.
