

Tufts Large Animal Hospital

Posted At : January 22, 2003 10:36 PM | Posted By : Steven Erat

Related Categories: Personal, Science, ColdFusion, Photos, Odds & Ends, New England

A short photo gallery of Tufts University School of Veterinary Medicine in North Grafton, MA. I worked in the large animal hospital as a veterinary technician from 1996 to 2000, mostly on weekends and some weeknights, in addition to my regular day job for the USDA Neuroscience in Boston. Many thanks to Lynn Schad not only for having the confidence to hire me, but for teaching me with patience, and recommending me when I applied to Allaire.

I apologize for the poor image quality of some photos. Those photos were taken from the floppy disk that was returned with the developed photos, part of the package that CVS provided back in 1997.

The PBS Program Nova followed the class of 1997 during their 4 years at the hospital to produce the documentary Animal Hospital. During their 4th year, students are no longer in classes, but instead rotate through major segments of the hospital such as small animal, large animal, wildlife clinic, etc... Part of my responsibility there was to help the students learn emergency room treatment during real animal crises. Many of the students seen in the video including Marty, Noelle, and Rosario shared the LAH with me during their rotation.

View Photo Gallery or check out the class of 1997, class of 1999, or class of 2000.