Also known as La Pedrera, Casa Milà is one of Antonio Gaudi's architectural masterpieces. At one time it served as a collection of luxurious apartments for Barcelona's elite, but today exists as a museum. Built in the very early 1900's, it is a monument to 20th century Modernism. It sits on Passeig de Gràcia in central Barcelona, a few blocks north Plaza Catalunya. These photos were taken in January 2005.
